Between 7 and 16 February 1951, the Stendal-Borstel (M 53/Y.75) airfield was occupied by about 30 to 40 Soviet Air Force troops and a Soviet Army unit. No aircraft landed at the field during the period of observation. No work was being done at the field or on the runway. The holes on the southern edge of the landing field, where the unit previously stationed there had stored its fuel containers, were still empty and not filled in. It was rumored in Borstel that aircraft were expected to arrive at the field in the near future. *
